

The Inspiration

One day I was contemplating the great power that was in choice, in making decisions. As I reflected on it, I began feeling how I have experienced decisions and choices myself. How final and dramatic those decisions had been.

Decisions

...The decisions of life

no erasing

no going back

Each decision a door

a handle to be turned a door to be opened

You decide the door is opened

You walk through the door closes

A door behind you

a door with no handle

The doors of life

handles to open and walk through no handles on the other side

no return

The decisions of life

doors with only one handle choices with no turning back ...